Locavore Resources: West

 Save to My Favorites

Locally minded chefs Joseph Humphrey of Sausalito, California, and Gabriel Rucker of Portland, Oregon, divulge their favorite regional food finds.

California

ANDANTE DAIRY

From the bloomy, buttery Nocturne to the nutty, melting Piccolo, Soyoung Scanlan makes unbelievable cow's- and goat's-milk cheeses, says chef Joseph Humphrey of Murray Circle in Sausalito, CA. The chef and cheesemaker are also collaborating on a cheese for Humphrey's restaurant.

LONG MEADOW RANCH

Humphrey likes to visit this Napa Valley ranch's farm stand on weekends to find organic herbs and produce along with its wines, olive oils and grass-fed beef.

MONTEREY FISH MARKET

Humphrey marvels at Paul Johnson's "absolute devotion" to sustainable seafood at his wholesale operation and unassuming Berkeley shop—and in Fish Forever, Johnson's recent cookbook and guide.

Oregon

KEN'S ARTISAN BAKERY

Chef Gabriel Rucker of Portland's Le Pigeon insists his burgers would be incomplete without Ken's ciabatta buns. The bakery also makes tarts, croissants and, on Monday nights, pizza.

NICKY USA, INC.

"I work almost exclusively with Nicky USA for my meats—and their customer service is the best in the business," Rucker says of this purveyor of buffalo, Oregon lamb and other rare meats.

STEVE'S CHEESE

"Anyone visiting Portland shouldn't miss Steve's store," Rucker says. Tucked inside the Square Deal Wine Company, Steve Jones's shop favors local cheeses like the tangy Hannah Bridge from Ancient Heritage Dairy in Scio—the first sheep's-milk dairy in the state.
